

That's why everybody calls me "Little Victoria". I began teaching very off-handed. It was a case of people coming to me and asking me if I could teach them a certain song.

The greatest sacrifice you make in the hula is time with your family so I've tried to always make my family first and hula second.

Nowadays the hula is so modernized. So many steps have been added to ancient hula that never were. I've ~~learn~~ only learned from my own kumu but never before have I seen these new steps in kahiko. What do you call them? I suppose there has to be change but I come from the old school and it's hard for me to adjust to this change. My kumu created motions to kahiko mele but her motions ~~had~~ had a ~~sum~~ kept within the kahiko style of dancing.
